

we are sending our hopes for everyone's continued safety and well-being until things get back to normal. Japan will rise again!

Slammed rides... Something we all see on the Japanese VIP scene, This is the soul of the VIP enthusiast who never stops challenging themselves to riding lower. The low riding makes the vehicle's form not only brilliant, but also aggressive. Therefore, riding low is one of the most essential customization items. Of course, possible expensive body kit damage or exhaust damages may occur. This is why an air suspension system is the must-have item, especially in bad road condition areas such as the US or other Asian countries. For the best performance while driving low, you have to make sure that your "Sweet Spot" riding position in your air suspension set up. Typical air suspension systems are unable to change the "Sweet Spot" position, but the On the Ground series makes it possible to ride low without sacrificing handling and performance.
